

Dear Parent/Carer,

We have survived another week of oppressive heat and you can feel a burden has been lifted for our KS4 students as the three week exam period finished today. The students have been mature, patient and resilient and have conducted themselves with dignity throughout this challenging period. We are hopeful that results will be worth shouting about, fingers crossed.

I as a very proud Head Teacher on Wednesday as I watched a group of our students perform their improvised physical theatre piece on the theme of Free to be Me at the Royal Albert Hall as part of the West London Inclusive Arts Festival. The students caught the spirit of the piece perfectly and their journey from gloomy and sad to joyous and ecstatic was a delight to behold. To see these shy and timid students find their voice and have the confidence to express their unique individuality was inspirational. It was a stand-out performance and received a great reception from the audience. Well done to all the performers and thank you to Ashley Summerville and Amy Worthington for directing and producing.

I want to remind you again about the importance of completing the parent survey so we have as many responses as possible to inform our parental engagement strategy next year. We really want to hear what you think of our performance so we can keep improving. This is the link;
